

EXERCISE

PRIV LOGS

Background

You've been conducting a document review for one of your clients, and as part of the project, you're supervising contract attorneys assisting with the review. All of the documents that have been marked as both responsive and privileged have been set aside in your database.

A senior associate on the team has asked you to do the re-review of these privileged documents before the documents are produced to the other side, and to draft the privilege log for them.

The senior associate wants you to come to her office to talk about the re-review and the priv log. In particular, she'd like you to think about the following:

- What are the two main things you'll be looking for with each document when doing the re-review; and
- What kinds of information about each document will you include in your draft priv log.

Instructions

Come prepared to discuss these two questions with the senior associate.